

Here is one of the long-awaited Amarylli...Just as the weather is at its worst, it is nice to have some plants with color going inside. One of the amarylli finally bloomed. Surprise! It was red instead of the light peach I thought. Well, we've got another on the way that looks closer to the color I thought it would turn out.

We grow salads with 2 Aerogardens, (the classic and Pro 200). We've got mesclun greens and yellow and red cherry tomatoes going right now.

The striped phalaenopsis (pink) returned with its usually lovely and long lasting blooms. I find that the sphagnum moss works better for these phalaenopsis, Dendrobiums like things dryer for their feet, hence wood chips work well for them.
