

First Spring Salad

Saturday, 15 June 2013 09:57 - Last Updated Saturday, 15 June 2013 10:15

The first salad from our city garden has arrived. The ingredients are chard, cherry tomato, radish and snap pea. (not visible but they're in there). This is organically grown in a raised bed and fence boxes in our yard. We've got different ingredients depending on the time of year. Later, we expect more tomatoes, a few types of peppers, basil, garlic chives and red lettuce. This is a small example of what can be done with a little bit of ground, containers and some gardening experience (which to me, basically amounts to paying attention!).

Urban gardening can pay off!
