

The cold is still hanging on here but plants are starting inside...

These little purple peppers are slow to start the heat but hot after a few seconds. They, like the Golden Cherry tomatoes, are in a Sprout Aerogarden. They both will be transplanted outside into pots when the weather gets warm enough.

Using the Aerogarden for seed starting. The light is more regular than the window with peat pots... So the proof will be getting these out of the garden and into boxes or the ground.

<http://mycitygarden.net/>