

It's that time again...

Autumn is upon us too soon. There has been been a bumper crop of cukes, cherry tomatoes, herbs and peppers. Cooking with vegetables right out of the garden is the best. The days are already down to only 12 hours of sun and it's a lot more red shifted than the blue light that veggies need. The Nasturtiums got a really late start along with the Zebra tomatoes. Pak Choy, Napa Cabbage are doing great. Greens love the cooler weather. Enjoy the views here:
